The Luzerne County Library System Announces Availability of CloudLibrary

Wilkes-Barre,PA— March 19, 2020 — The Luzerne County Library System announces the CloudLibrary, an online resource for E books and E audiobooks available at no cost to all Luzerne County Residents with a library card from any of the ten member libraries.

"Although we have had E books available for some time, our move to the CloudLibrary platform will give patrons access not only to titles we own, but also to those owned by other libraries in Pennsylvania," stated Richard Miller, Executive Director at The Luzerne County Library System.

CloudLibrary Availability

CloudLibrary is available for immediately download at www.cloudlibrary.com on computer or by downloading the app for mobile devices. The app is available for Apple IOS and Apple/Mac; Android, Windows, Nook, Kindle Fire and Chrome devices. The new platform promises to be much easier to use offers integration with our existing library database with library cardholders.

Access will be available through the System's website, www.luzernecountylibraries.org or through individual library websites.

Luzerne County Libraries

Founded in 1984, the Luzerne County Library System (LCLS) serves the residents of Luzerne County, Pennsylvania. LCLS is comprised of 10 autonomous libraries. The library system provides vital information resources and activities. The provisions of accurate and timely information is extremely important in the information ages, especially now when so many residents are restricting their activities because of the coronavirus quarantine. The ten members of the LCLS include:

> Back Mountain Memorial Library, Dallas
> Hazleton Area Public Library, Hazleton (main library and four branches)
> Hoyt Library, Kingston
> Marian Sutherland Kirby Library, Mountaintop
> Mill Memorial Library, Nanticoke
> Osterhout Free Library, Wilkes-Barre (main library and three branches)
> Pittston Memorial Library, Pittston
> Plymouth Public Library, Plymouth
> West Pittston Library, West Pittston; and > Wyoming Free Library, Wyoming
